PLAISTOW WIFE SLAYER NOT EXPECTED TO LIVE

Unable to take Nourishment Owing to Wounds

George Caswell, who shot and killed his wife at Plaistow on Saturday night, May 11, and then attempted to end his own life with the same shotgun, is steadily failing, and according to Supt. Trotter of the Rockingham County Hospital at Brentwood, is not expected to live.

The day following the murder and attempted suicide, Caswell was removed to County Hospital, and for a time it was thought he would recover. Blood poisoning has set in, however, and his condition is regarded as critical. He is also weakened because he has been unable to take much nourishment owing to the injury to his mouth.

Caswell has remained the greater portion of the time in a semi-conscious condition, but has on several occasions roused sufficiently to ask why his wife didn't come to him and who did the shooting.

MADE HIS ESCAPE WITH AN AUTOMOBILE

William Tracey, a soldier at Fort Constitution, is a badly wanted man by the authorities of this city and at the Port. William is charged with setting away with $65 in real money from a fellow soldier, who trusted him enough to leave him hold his roll while he was engaged in case hall.

Tracey accompanied the baseball team from the Port to the Navy Yard Sunday afternoon to witness a game, and just before the game one of the members of the team passed him a roll of bills containing $65 and asked him to look out for it while he was playing. He did, but not in the way expected, for he is now alleged that he promptly came to this city and engaged an automobile to take him to Newburyport, from where he caught a train for Boston.

This was not learned until it was too late to get him in that city and then the authorities at the Port telephoned the Boston police and they referred them back to the local police. As soon as notified Captain Burke phoned the Boston police, but the train was in Boston and Tracey was not located.

It was later learned that he had signified his intention of going to New York, and he may be reached on his arrival in that city.

STAGE DRIVER HELD UP FOR CARRYING LIQUOR

County Solicitor Gupill, Sheriff had one passenger and he had a package of booze, but he promptly informed the officers that he was bound on a fishing trip and the whiskey was necessary. The officers promptly allowed him to keep his "bait." He was arraigned before Trial Justice P. B. Dow of Northwood under the Pearson law, pleaded guilty and was fined $50 and costs.

LOCAL CAMPERS LEND AID TO MAN AND WOMAN

Newmarket Party Had Got Lost in Great Bay

Shortly after midnight on Sunday Joseph W. Akerman, Ernest Trefethen and others of Camp Mistletoe on the shore of Great Bay were awakened by cries of a man and woman which came from the vicinity of Woodman's Point. Akerman and Trefethen put off in a motor boat to hunt up the trouble. They had hard work navigating in the dark to locate them but finally came alongside a small motor boat containing Frank Page and woman who were from Newmarket. They had started about 5 o'clock for Dover Point and got lost. They were taken in tow by Akerman and Trefethen and were obliged to stay at the Mistletoe camp for the remainder of the night. Although they were in no immediate danger when picked up the arrival of the heroes from the camp saved them from passing a night on the water with no idea of where daylight would bring them.

A NEWCASTLE PIG STORY

Motherless Porkers Being Raised on Nursing Bottles

New Castle people have a very interesting pig story. Recently the owner of swine lost a large dam which had a week before given birth to a dozen or more of young porkers and the owner had much worryment with the brood on his hands. He had to his neighbors and he found many ally decided to give the most of them willing hands ready to adopt them. Somebody who had much knowledge of the raising of young pigs recommended the nursing bottle to promote the growth of the motherless swine. Every one of the lot took to the bottle like a child and all are reported to be gaining in weight. With the tender care that is given the infant porkers, it looks as if they might later take the first prize at one of the coming fairs later in the season.

HIS BID WAS ACCEPTED, BUT HE IS STILL WAITING

Representative John August Helt is looking for acubing, and a variety assortment of red bricks bought by him from the national treasury department. He is said to have found the curbing in the same old place beside the federal building on Pleasant street, but he is at a loss to locate the brick. And the government has his money.

When the treasury department decided to displace the brick with a granolithic sidewalk on all four sides of the postoffice building they invited bids for the purchase of the waste material. Included in the waste sold was the curbing that surrounds the grass plots and the brick that formerly constituted the sidewalk. Mr. Helt's bid of $101 was the highest received.

He was prepared to cart away the curbing when informed that it would be re-used to surround the same grass plots, which were to be lowered from their present height. Mr. Helt was informed that the department had decided to vary from the original specifications. Consequently he mailed four money orders, total $101, to the department. Mr. Helt said that when he went in search of the bricks he was not able to find the object of his quest.

OPINIONS ARE FAVORABLE TO THE BOARD OF HEALTH

City Solicitor Emery Files Answer to Mayor Badger's Questions

City Solicitor Samuel W. Emery, Jr., has filed his opinion to the question of Mayor Daniel W. Badger pertaining to the power and duties of the board of health. Mr. Emery answers that the board may make a "peaceable" entry on to private property in the investigation of a complaint without obtaining the permission of the owner or a warrant from justice that notice must be given alleged violators of the health laws, before an arrest is made under certain sections of the statutes but not under other sections; that the city would not be liable for any "ill-advised or malicious acts" of the board, and that prosecutions in isolated and remote sections of the city should be made with equal vigor as in the residential or business districts.

If the opinions of the city solicitor have any relationship to the recent summoning of Charles A. Badger to police court on the charge of violating the health regulations, they are assumed to be favorable to the board of health.

Mayor Badger first asked Mr. Emery's opinion as to whether the board had authority to enter a citizen's property and investigate a complaint that a nuisance exists without obtaining the permission of the owner or a warrant from a justice. Mr. Emery answers that if the board has reason to believe that a nuisance exists the members may enter and examine "such things as come under their observations" provided they do not make a forcible entry. His opinion is that the maintenance of a nuisance in violation of the health laws is a crime and that proceeding toward its abatement the health officers are invested with power similar to that of a policeman.

Mayor Badger asked the opinion of the city solicitor if the board, after investigating and learning that a nuisance exists, has the right to cause the arrest of a property owner without warning or notice giving reasonable time in which to abate the alleged nuisance. Mr. Emery answers that under certain sections of the public statutes a notice must be given before criminal action is taken, and that under other sections the board would not be required to give notice. In such instances where the statutes conflict with the city ordinances the statutes prevail.

In answering the question, "Is the city responsible and liable for damages caused by any illegal, incompetent, ill-advised or malicious acts of the board of health, or a member or members thereof, towards a citizen or taxpayer of the city?" Mr. Emery says: "It is an elementary principle of law that the city is not liable or responsible for damages caused by any malicious acts of the board of health or its members toward a citizen or taxpayer of the city or toward anyone else."

This answer to the question, "Is the board of health required to enforce the health laws of the state in the remote and isolated parts, equally or with greater vigor than in the residential sections of the city?" is

EXETER WOMAN STRUCK BY AN AUTOMOBILE

Driver of Car Deemed Blameless by Police

Mrs. Zinaide M. Desroches, wife of Jerome Desroches of 37 Linden street, Exeter, was struck by a touring car driven by Charles Warner of Boston, Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Desroches was crossing Linden street with an infant in a baby carriage and another child about 3 years old slightly ahead.

At the sound of the auto horn Mrs. Desroches left the baby at one side of the street, ran to the other child, took it in her arms and was running back to the baby when she was struck.

As she fell she threw the child from her and it escaped uninjured. Mrs. Desroches was dragged about 30 feet by the fender of the car, but examination later failed to disclose any injuries in themselves serious.

Mr. Warner took her in his car to the Cottage hospital and then drove to the police station and gave all desired information to Chief Deverly S. McLaughlin. He gave 43,513 as his license number. That on the car was 29,599, Mass.

With his companions, a man and two women, Mr. Warner then resumed his trip.

For the accident Mr. Warner is deemed blameless by the police.

THINKS THE BOARD HAD MALICIOUS INTENT

Mayor Daniel W. Badger has used the opinion of City Solicitor Samuel W. Emery, Jr., as to certain power and duties of the board of health. Mayor Badger desires to know if the board has a legal right to enter any private enclosure without a warrant, and if alleged violations of health regulations may be summoned into police court before they are ordered by the board to amend the conditions that are considered not to be in keeping with the regulations. Mr. Emery is preparing his opinion.

The basis of Mayor Badger's inquiries is said to be an action taken recently by the board against Chas. A. Badger. The mayor is said to be desirous of knowing if the health regulations would indicate that the action of the board was prompted by maliciousness. Dr. Charles E. Johnston, who is chairman of the board, and Inspector Edwin C. Heworth recently visited the Badger farm on Maplewood avenue to investigate a complaint. The officers of the board say that they standing on the farm, peered into a barn and saw the flooring bespattered with blood and serving as a repository for the entrails and other remnants of beef animals. They also said that further investigation disclosed the fact that a Hebrew rabbi was slaughtering cattle on the farm, and that the means thus procured were not submitted to the examination required by law.

Subsequently Mr. Badger was charged into court. He maintained that he believed that he was not in violation of the law, and the case against him was continued on his promise to whitewash the interior of the building and not allow the alleged slaughtering of cattle.

Mayor Badger later directed a letter to the board advising the members against overstepping their duties and not to become parties to any prosecution that might appear to be malicious.

Dr. Johnston has stated that neither he nor Inspector Heworth assumed any authority that is not vested in them by law. He said that they did not have a warrant to enter Mr. Badger's enclosure, and that they merely stepped to the edge of the barn and looked in. Dr. Johnston also says that if Mr. Badger were violating the health regulations, according to the charges preferred, it was not necessary for the board to first order him to desist before summoning him into court. It is upon these points that Mayor Badger has requested the opinion of the city solicitor.

INJUSTICE OF JUSTICE AS ADMINISTERED IN MASSACHUSETTS.

No far from a year ago some Italians killed a person in Lynn. They were arrested, tried, condemned, sentenced and executed within about three months, I think.

A few months ago a minister committed one of the most cruel murders ever committed after having taken from what every true woman values more than life. He confesses his crime, is sentenced to death next week. In the minds of many who have followed this case, his mind is not in a normal condition, and therefore is entitled to a little more consideration than one whose mind is in a normal condition, and it has pained me to see such cruel letters written urging the most terrible punishment for him which could be invented, and many of them by women. I believe some of those very women would, if instead of murdering his victim he had let her go and suffered her shame alone and been driven into the street to a life a thousand times worse than death, and he gone out into the world and made a lot of money—some of these very women would have been selling their traps to catch him for themselves or their daughters. No man living is more in favor of protecting by every possible means, society against such fiends, whether sane or insane, than I am, but no punishment of a murderer ever brought back to life the one murdered. I believe that it is wrong to put any one to death, legally or illegally, and especially when there is any question of the murdered's full responsibility, which I believe there is in many minds in this case. I suppose before this is read in the paper Richeson will be before a Judge before whom there is no injustice known. About four or five years ago a man by name of Jordan murdered his own wife in a most brutal manner in Somerville, and coolly cut her body up as a butcher would meat. He was arrested, tried, convicted, and I think sentenced. A story was secured on some little technical point, and during the story one of the jurors became insane. No claim was made that he was insane during the trial, so the case is kept along for years and meanwhile the man is living on luxuries provided for him by his rich friends, and the case is postponed from Court to Court, evidently with the purpose of letting the public forget it, when some kind-hearted Judge will quietly make a decision which will open the prison doors and let this worse than wild beast out free.

CHILDREN'S SCALP TROUBLES

Children are subject to many kinds of scalp troubles, such as scales, sores, scabs, ringworm, etc. If neglected, they spread and develop into serious diseases. Scratching aggravates the trouble and increases the danger of infection by other children. Cadum, the new remedy, stops the itching at once and begins healing with the first application. Its prompt use in any scalp trouble will save much suffering and anxiety. Cadum is good for any sore or eruption on the face or body. Of all druggists, 10c. & 25c. per box.

If this is Massachusetts Justice, I am glad I live in Maine instead of Massachusetts.

It was out for rendering aid on 18 occasions; 6 times to documented vessels and 12 times to undocumented craft of various descriptions. Its nearest competitor is the Chamiswell Beach, Maine, station, which was out 17 times, but only twice to documented vessels, which none of the other stations in the district approached these figures.

Sir Henry Irving a Victim.

Mr. Grassmith, the noted English humorist, just deceased, was an inveterate joker, and Sir Henry Irving was once his victim when they were both staying at the same hotel at Manchester. Mr. Grassmith, seeing an enormous crowd outside the hotel said to the porter: "Are these people waiting to see me?" On being told that they were waiting to see Sir Henry he turned up the collar of his overcoat, adjusted his eyeglasses, pulled his soft hat down over his eyes and walked down the steps with the Irving gait. There was great cheering but when Sir Henry Irving went down later the crowd had dispersed. Afterward, when Sir Henry heard of the incident, he said to Mr. Grassmith, with a twinkle in his eye: "You ought not to have done that; I pay those people to come here every night."—London Mail.

Belated Appreciation.

A workman called at the home of President Taft's brother Charlie, in Cincinnati, to perform some odd job and he paused to note some of the priceless paintings in Brother Charlie's private gallery. He was attracted to a small original Van Dyke and moved up closer to get a better look. "Ah!" he exclaimed. "I've got that same thing down home. Yes, it's exactly like that. My wife got it some place here in town. Are they worth much?" "That one is worth $25,000," he was told. "Hum!" he murmured. "I guess I'll have ours framed."

SHE BLAMES "SPIRIT WIFE"

Mrs. William Phelps Dodge Divorced Husband Because Uncanny Influence Ruled Him.

The uncanny influence of a "spirit wife" is said to have been responsible for the divorce action which Mrs. William Phelps Dodge has just won against her millionaire husband.

The decree, which was signed in Philadelphia, would have been granted several weeks ago, it is understood, but the judge wanted to make a longer investigation of the unusual charges brought by the girl wife of the widely known author and lawyer.

According to the papers in the case, Mr. Dodge, who is forty-eight years old, met his young bride here at Sherry's on election night, 1909, and after an impetuous wooing, married her in London on January 10, 1910.

Prior to that time she and her sister had been in the chorus of "Havana," a musical comedy playing at the Casino.

Despite the difference in their ages—the bride was only eighteen—the couple lived happily for a couple of months after the wedding. Then Mrs. Dodge charges that the spirit of Mr. Dodge's first wife, Ethel, appeared before him and began to "pick on" her successor.

Young Mrs. Dodge said that whenever she wore a jewel, a veil or anything that the first Mrs. Dodge had possessed, the latter's spirit would appear before her husband and demand that he have it removed at once.

And, according to the girl-wife, the spirit-wife was always obeyed.

This treatment got on the nerves of the youthful Mrs. Dodge finally, and she packed up and returned to this country, leaving Mr. Dodge in London.

Immediately on her arrival here, she applied for the divorce through her mother, as guardian, and charged that cruel, barbarous and inhuman treatment had been inflicted upon her by her husband.—New York Evening Mail.

Rather Unreliable.

"You say that you refuse to believe the sworn testimony of this man?" asked the examining barrister.

"That is so," replied the witness.

"What reasons have you?"

"Why, I know the man! He hates to tell the truth—it's absolutely foreign to his nature. He and I were at the same school, and he used to cry bitterly when the teacher made him repeat that two and two made four."

"Have you any further reminiscences, sir?" This rather sarcastical cry from the man of law.

"Oh, dear me, yes! Once he was ill and described his symptoms so that the doctor prescribed for water on the knee, when he was really suffering from inflamed tonsils!"

Draining Desert Lands.

One of the curiosities of irrigation is that it is sometimes necessary to drain such lands. When the lands are situated on a comparatively level, the water from the irrigation ditch above seeps along the line between the rock formation and in many cases accumulates in such an amount that it actually becomes swampy. Then it has to be drained, just as in the case of the south. It seems strange to witness the laying of a drainage system in an arid country, but it has been done a great many times. The average user of irrigation who fails may trace his lack of success to the too liberal use of water. Instead of watering he really drowns his crops.

All That Was Left.

A large boarding house caught fire during dinner and much confusion resulted. After the worst was over the landlady, who was a philosophical soul, remarked that it was a blessing that the fire had not happened at night, as some life might have been lost.

A little later the colored boy, who heard this, mysteriously called a great bunch of dark, tangled hair. "Don't say nothin', Miss Nora," he whispered. "Dis fish is worse dan it 'pears. One o' dem ladies in de room ovah de berry done get burnt up. I ben up dar to see, an' I found her hair."—Ladies' Home Journal.

Best Way to Rest.

Sometimes the best way to work is to take a few hours of relaxation before plunging into troublesome duties. It is impossible to rest unless there are quiet and calm in the mind and peace in one's heart and soul.

A trouble worried brain disturbs the entire physical forces, making one incapable of work or one's best of efforts.

There is a great difference between the naturally lazy person and one who knows the need of rest. One cannot find pleasure in rest unless one works for otherwise there is no contrast. It's like eating when one isn't hungry. No hurried, flurried, fussy woman can ever be beautiful.

Her Reason.

"Mrs. Bloodgood is sending out cards of invitation for a little dance."

"Wants to entertain a few friends, does she?"

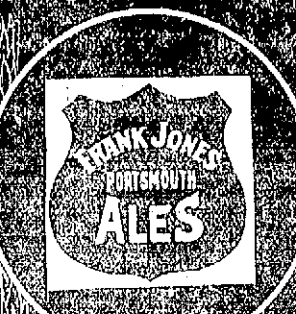

"Yes, and to snub a few more."—Harper's Bazar.

Against All Tradition.

"That millionaire is a very queer chap."

"As to how?"

"Never claims he was happier when he was poor. Always says he is happier now."

The Dover team had made a run in the sixth, but after that they never were dangerous. Brackett pitched a good game and also fielded his position in fine shape, having five assists. Cobb Gets Hard Sentence for Fan Assault;
His Absence Will Weaken the TigersCOBB PICKING OUT HIS FAVORITE BAT

Detroit, May 20.—The absence of Ty Cobb, who has been indefinitely suspended by Ban Johnson for assaulting a spectator in New York recently, will seriously affect the Tigers in the American league race and practically kills the chances of the Tigers entertained of ultimate victory. The Detroit team has been badly shattered during the first few weeks of the campaign. Cobb was the only player who played in his regular form, and Cobb's regular form is as good as the efforts of half a team. The demon outfielder and slugger was accountable for most of the hits and runs credited to the Tigers during the first month of the race and but for him the erstwhile champions of the American league would be in the rack. Cobb's offense occurred in New York May 15 during the fourth inning of the game between the Detroit Tigers and the Yankees, when he bounded over the railing into the stands and assaulted a spectator. Cobb claimed that the "fan" hurled vile epithets at him.

SALT AIR, SUNSHINE AND CLIMATE

The significance of climate as a factor in the treatment of disease is generally conceded. Altitude, sunshine, salt air, ocean breezes and forest hills are expressions with which the practitioner now and then attempts to conjure his jaded patients. Not infrequently the sport is effective, bringing with it a renewal of vigor and restoration of health. Can objective causes for climatic influences be discovered? What are the reasons for the frequently observed beneficial effects of an ocean voyage, or a stay at the seaside? Professors Zuntz of Berlin and Durrig of Vienna—both well known European experts in physiology, who have devoted much energy to the study of the effects of high altitudes on man—have given some consideration to these questions. In the course of an ocean voyage from Germany to the Canary Islands and return they made careful observations on pulse-rate, body temperature, etc. Despite the invigorating nature of the trip, these fundamental bodily features were not found altered in any detectable uniform degree. This corresponds with what has been observed in investigations at seaside resorts where the travel factor is excluded, but the atmospheric conditions are similar in many ways, says The Journal of the American Medical Association. Neither such conditions, nor the tropics, nor yet polar climates effect any marked alteration in the physiologic functions. In any event it has been impossible to demonstrate changes that are considered indicative of a stimulating effect of ocean climates. A similar outcome has attended the careful experimental investigation of the effect of sunlight. An abundance of direct sunlight, especially in some of the widely visited health resorts, has always claimed a due share of the credit ascribed to the invigorating climate. We read of the days of balmy sunshine. Careful scientific observations have not disclosed any bodily changes due to this cause. Notwithstanding all of these negative findings, however, no one can deny the usefulness of a change of climate, despite its obscurity surrounding the secret of its influence on the individual.

The baseball fans should be out in force this evening and give the Sun-set League players a good send off. The average baseball player is very susceptible to a little encouragement on the part of the onlookers.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer well says there are those who—perhaps talk of the possibility of the two colonels—the rough riding one and the peerless one—being the opposing presidential candidates. Well, they couldn't both be elected. Might as well be as optimistic as possible.

The Washington Star says: Dr. Spitzmaier said that woman's brain indicated that she would never be the equal of man in abstract mental conception. It should be noted, in this connection, that abstract mental exercise is what causes a man to sit on a fence whittling a stick or chewing a straw.

The New York Sun says a wave of activity in matters municipal appears to be sweeping over the land. There is a prospect of positive advantage to the public from the intelligent discussion of problems relating to city affairs, evenness, congestion and single tax, which occupied the attention of the conference on city news which has just been terminated in the United Charities Building. Two other conferences are in prospect, one to convene next Tuesday at the city hall on public baths and another which is to discuss miscellaneous matters appertaining to municipal government. The latter is expected to gather a number of mayors of cities to discuss June 11.

The New York World says were there no further gain than that of ridding the Fourth of fire and accidents to persons, the results would amply justify all the efforts made to get rid of the old reckless use of fireworks and rockets. But there have been other gains as well. The same method of observance has given a larger amount of pleasure to the public and has also in some localities been made instructive as well. This was notably true of the celebration in this city last year, and it is gratifying to know that a similar observance has been provided for the coming festival. The example set here will be influential in determining the course of localities that have as yet held to the old way.

The Baltimore Sun says for twenty years Atlantic City has been in the grip of an organization whose tentacles reached out for everything from the meadows to the ocean. Louis Kuchnie a year ago laughed at the "reformers." He had not lost an election in fifteen years. He had the world in a sling. He ruled Atlantic City as if he owned the town. Since that time the members of the old ring have been indicted; Kuchnie has been convicted, and a prison sentence hangs over him. Atlantic City on Tuesday voted to wipe out the city council and establish the commission form of government. For the first time in twenty years the big city by the sea is free from the bosses who exploited and disgraced it, free to make a fresh start in decent government.

The Cincinnati Times Star says a proposal made by J. W. Hamilton of St. Paul, Miss., last on Memorial day the school children of the country wear either the national colors or a sprig of evergreen, has been heavily endorsed by the president, who suggests that the custom be adopted, not merely by the children, but by people generally. It has frequently been said of late that because the public devotes so much of the holiday to attendance at outdoor games and sports of various kinds there is danger of its real significance being lost. That danger is probably not so great as many believe. As last Memorial day shall be observed the reason for its being set aside as a holiday will be well understood. Nevertheless, the adoption of such a custom as has been suggested should serve to emphasize the day's significance in many minds where it may now be given scant consideration. It would be a sentimental tribute to the nation's heroes that all should be glad to pay and which would make the better Americans if they did pay. The proposal is timely and its prompt and general adoption would be much to the credit of the American people.

A BOSTON GIRLS BUDGET

Star Boarders of Philanthropic Hotel Grow Thin on Fat Pickles. They Claim—Boston Has New Divorce Preventative. In Projected High for Prospective Housewives. Theatrical House Play Strikes a Shining Mark—Ears of New England Folk to be Protected by Great Anti-Noise Crusade.

Boston, May 18—(1912)—Hush! An international movement to secure the suppression of avoidable noise in great cities will be inaugurated in Boston shortly, and, if necessary, efforts made to have laws passed which shall compel restrictions in noise nuisances. An anti noise committee's first meeting will be held Aug. 15 at the Harvard Medical school. The presiding officer will be Professor Victor Graziop of Pisa and Florence universities, to whom the progress of the movement is largely due. Owing to his efforts in the past 15 years laws have been passed in Italy forbidding some of the signals formerly used by railroads engines and automobiles. Research at the aural clinics in Boston show that 15 per cent of the patients have lost the ability to distinguish notes of low register when they are away from their work, and that to restore normal hearing is necessary to have a certain amount of noise around them. It has long been known that suggestion to continued noise causes deterioration of the aural structure and accompany nervous and muscular changes for the worse, and it is encouraging to note that something is to be done toward preventing ear damage, each home.

An unexpected professional man accompanied the editor of a Boston newspaper to one of the current theatrical productions recently. The editor procured the seats which had been held for him and which were well to the front of the orchestra. The professional man, a W. K., denoted who is acknowledged to be quite a "good looker" in spite of, or perhaps because of, a well polished superstructure, remarked, "I'll bet somebody will make a mark of my head before the show is over." During the performance a young man and girl do a sketch, in the program of which the girl leaves the stage and does a little song and dance up the aisle through the audience. On her return down the aisle she spotted the tempting crown of the dentist and, as he sat conveniently near, she took his head between her two hands and implanted a stage kiss on the bald spot—a suggestion is welcomed by scientists portion of it—exclaiming as she did so, "Oh you Doctor!" Her fellow actor immediately leaped from the stage in an apparent rage of jealousy, bent on finishing up the dentist. The latter retorted that he was the head of a joke and said he would meet the young man outside after the show—and buy him a drink and sewing to make the effort. So well was it carried off that the audience thought it all a part of the play, which it was, except that the principal hadn't been given his one school for domestic arts, was it cost him several rounds of drinks, broached. Nevertheless, the school but the newest men who perpetuated the joke had to give up tickets enough to send the dentist's wife and only four teachers. Philanthropic hotel, patronized exclusively by women, are many. Again, the boarder have sored on the pickles at the Franklin Square House. Now that the long struggle to remove the institution from debt and the triumphant burning of the mortgage has been accomplished, the girls living at the comfortable, home-like hostelry demand that the overgrown pickles—the treasured Jumbo pickle of school days and picnics—be reduced in length and circumference. The matter has been taken under advisement, but in the meantime the same pickles as of your weigh heavily upon the breakfast table and the boarder's digestion. Probably the Franklin Square House will be spared a visit from the Washington woman of social aspirations who boarded at a Maine summer resort not long ago and was requested to pass the pickles at the breakfast table. Her eyes opened in astonishment her nose tilted upward (she would have raised a lorgnette if it had been dinner instead of breakfast) as she remarked: "Dear me! You queer New England people! Pickles for breakfast—how extraordinary!"

Bird lovers, zoologists and many others are glad that Governor Foss has signed the protective bill which has recently passed the legislature. This act makes it unlawful "to buy, sell, barter, exchange, or in any manner deal in or trade with respect to the dead or living bodies or any part thereof, of wild birds or game birds because of a well polished superstructure, remarked, "I'll bet somebody will make a mark of my head before the show is over." The growth of the movement to provide educational facilities for girls and young women along lines of domestic art has been impressive. Since the start in the Little Hall, the school has changed its home several times owing to increasing classes. The new building will be a model structure, fireproof throughout, and consisting of a basement and four stories. Classrooms, library, auditorium with gallery and stage, reception rooms, dress-making rooms, millinery rooms, studios, laboratories and lecture rooms will be equipped with every facility for furthering the education of those young women whose home environment or lack of home has kept domestic science a sealed book. MEMORIAL DAY AND OTHER PLANS OF STORER POST

Veterans Will Hold Camp
Fire on Thursday Evening

Even with the fast decreasing membership of G. A. R. veterans of Storer Post of this city there is evidence aplenty of a united effort on the part of that organization to make the coming parade, decoration and exercises of Memorial day one of solemn, thoroughness, and even more impressive than in the years gone by.

On Wednesday upward of a ton of evergreen, consisting of eighty bags is expected, and immediately the probate court room will be opened from early morning until late at night of each day for the making of nearly seven hundred wreaths for the decoration of veteran graves in our own and vicinity cemeteries.

The Women's Relief Corps is expected to attend to this great work, assisted by some members of the G. A. R. and others of their auxiliary organizations. Not all citizens who can be induced by appeals to patriotism and patriotism will be welcomed to join in the task, pledging to all such the assurance that their efforts will be thankfully accepted and highly appreciated by those in charge.

Committees of the Post have been appointed to solicit an early conference with the commandant of the navy yard and with the commander of the artillery corps at Fort Constitution with a view of enlisting the maximum of their aid in ordering all the organized forces that can be spared from their respective reservations to join in the parade and exercises on that day of all others, set apart and dedicated by the National Government for the purposes above set forth.

The chief marshal has opened an office at No. 10 Franklin block for the remainder of the present month, for the special purpose of more effectively attending to the many preliminary incident to the success of a successful parade and procession.

Inquiries relating thereto may be made at the above address.

On Thursday evening of the present week Storer Post is to hold a camp fire entertainment, with the expressed purpose of discounting, if possible, all past gatherings of like character since the grant of their charter some thirty-five years ago.

The music of the orchestra will be wholly the war time tunes: A quartette of male voices will sing the songs of the South and the Civil war; and even the talent presented by children will recall memories of the War for the Flag. The stories of a few of the old veterans of incidents of army life of half a century ago, will doubtless prove of interest, though told with less of fervor and vigor than might be expected in their younger days.

The Post has notified every member upon its roll, and invited as their guests: The Woman's Relief Corps; the Sons of Veterans; the Officers of some other military organizations; and a few local officials, the capacity of the hall being insufficient to warrant the extension of the list further.

Invitation cards make the hour of evening 7.30 sharp, refreshments to be served at 9 o'clock.

Capt. J. A. Sanborn will have charge of the refreshment tables. Florist Hannaford will furnish the flower decorations, and Major Channoy B. Hoyt the orchestra.

The committee in charge are the Post Commander and Comrades Sanborn, Burnham, Jones and McIntosh.

Willing to Accommodate.
A New York justice got a jolt the other day, and he is telling the story of it yet. He said that late one afternoon he gave a case to a jury and that it was 4:30 o'clock the following morning before the jury agreed upon a verdict.

"I waited for the verdict," said the justice, "and after it was returned I told the jurors that as it was possible that most of them were married men if they desired I would give to each a certificate that he had been detained until 4:30 o'clock in the morning on jury service."

"The jurors consulted together for a few minutes," continued the justice, "and then the foreman arose and said: 'We thank you for your consideration and appreciate the kindness of your offer and desire to say that if your honor needs a certificate to the effect that you were detained until 4:30 o'clock in the morning waiting for our verdict, we will gladly so certify.'"

The justice hastily declined this kind offer with thanks, and just as hastily adjourned court.—Law Notes.

SUNSET LEAGUE OPENING GAME THIS EVENING

The Sunset League schedule will open this evening at the playgrounds, when the Y. M. C. A. and Riversides of Kittery will play. With good weather there will be a big crowd out and a good game is looked for.

Mayor Badger will open the series by throwing in the first ball, and the season of 1912 will be officially opened, and the field for the city championship will be started.

The baseball diamond is liable to be rather slow for a time as it has been newly graded, and it will be sometime before it is down so as to be fast.

The two teams who will open the series this evening, are both liable to be well up in the league at the end of the season, as they have good material and should come along fast.

For the Y. M. C. A. McPheters will pitch and Ralph Brackett will catch. Gowen will cover the first corner and Bill Brackett will have the second sack. "Tate" Hatch will play short and Remick will go in at third. For the outfield there are several candidates, Leary, Howard, Leavitt, and one or two more.

The Riversides will line up with Jim Able in the box and Pruet in the receiving end. Ned Paul will be at first, Crompton at second, Hunteon at short and "Links" Caswell at third. The outfield will be Grant, right; Norman, center, and Norton, left.

Frank Myers, a former chief at the Sea Grill, has taken a similar position at the Kearsarge cafe.

COAL MINERS END STRIKE AND WILL GO TO WORK

Wilkesbarre, Penn., May 19.—The agreement had been carried by a unanimous vote of the miners' convention. The debate had Saturday afternoon by a vote of 223 to 10 on for five days. A motion was immediately made to sign the new agreement, and the miners will go to work after an idleness of seven weeks.

The result of the vote was announced amid cheering, though it was manifest when the delegates rose to their feet to vote that the

PRESERVE FOES' HEADS

SOUTH AMERICAN TRIBE THAT EMBALMS THE TROPHIES.

Method Employed Reduces the Grizzly
Relics to the Size of a Billiard Ball With Changing or Mutilating Features.

The little-known Indian tribes that inhabit the more distant provinces of the South American republic of Ecuador, in almost entire independence, have a strange custom of preparing the heads of their vanquished enemies in a manner which reduces them to extremely small dimensions, without changing or mutilating the features.

For many years a war of extermination has been going on between the various tribes. Ambushes and night attacks are of frequent occurrence, and the parties often march dozens of leagues to surprise their enemies.

The head of the vanquished chief is cut off and becomes the most esteemed trophy of the victorious leader. It is then, in due time, desiccated and reduced by the latter by means of a process, the secret of which has so far been jealously guarded. As far as is known, the skull, jawbones and fleshy parts are entirely removed without the skin of the head and face suffering any damage, and the only trace of the operation is a small incision in the nape of the neck which is afterward sewn together again.

After removal of the bony and softer parts of the skull the skin is filled with hot spices and a vegetable concoction, the secret of which, as well as that of the process, is carefully guarded. This procedure is continued until the head is shrunk to the dimension of a good-sized billiard ball and has become as dry and tough as sole leather.

It is remarkable that during the process neither the natural luster of the hair nor its quantity is diminished, that eyebrows and lashes remain intact, and that even the grain of the skin with the fine hairs are plainly distinguishable after the preparation is completed.

The process lasts about one year, and the head during that time hangs in smoke, for which purpose a spit string is drawn through the upper part of it. The lips are sewed together in order to prevent the dead enemy from speaking and eating, and the long threads by which it is done remain attached and hanging from the mouth.

The trophy, which by the reduction has lost its gaudiness, is kept in a niche in the hut of the chief, stuck on the end of a spear. During the three years succeeding the killing, feasts, lasting three days, are held on the anniversaries of the victory, during which the shrunken head is exhibited. After three years the victor may dispose of his trophy in any way he sees fit, but this is rarely done, as the head forms a war trophy of the highest honor.

Case of Poetic Justice.

That was a case of poetic justice when a jury of women in San Francisco were called upon to pass on the fit of a man's clothes. A certain tailor in that western city sued a customer for money due for clothes. The customer pleaded that the suits did not fit and asked for a jury of women to decide the important point. The 12 good women and true, who from their own experience were no doubt eminently qualified to pass on the fit of clothes, found for the defendant. It must have afforded them infinite satisfaction to know that, after all the sarcasm with which their husbands treated their own troubles with dressmakers, their exasperating experiences should in the end be drawn upon to render a lawful judgment on clothes worn by men. All the fun poked at women and their dressmakers in San Francisco and all the jokes collateral to that engaging theme have been recalled.

Book Don'ts.

Good books are treasures, and they should be handled with the greatest of care by everyone. Here are a few rules that should be observed:

- Never drop a book upon the floor.
- Never turn leaves with the thumb.
- Never lean or rest upon an open book.
- Never turn down the corners of leaves.
- Never touch a book with soiled or damp hands.
- Always place a large book upon a table before opening it.
- Never pull a book from the shelf by the binding at the top, but by the back.
- Never close a book with a pencil, tablet or anything else that is bulky between the leaves.

Influence of Clothes.

It is said that the average man is, to a great extent, influenced by the kind of clothes which he wears, in the same way as he is affected by his environment. A well-dressed man will walk better, talk better and, they say, even do better work than the man who is carelessly dressed. Therefore, the man who is neglectful of his personal appearance, is unclean, slovenly, his clothes not pressed or carefully brushed, his shoes unpolished, his linen soiled, and his hat dented and covered with dust, discards one of the most potent instruments of success. Perhaps he cannot afford to buy linen or suits made at the best tailors, but every man can afford to be clean and neat in his dress.

STOMACH DISTRESS IS ENDED FOREVER

No Dyspepsia, Heartburn, Gas or Indigestion in Five Minutes.

Take your sour, out of order stomach—or maybe you call it indigestion, dyspepsia, gastritis or catarrh of stomach; it doesn't matter—take your stomach trouble right with you to your Pharmacist and ask him to open a 50-cent case of Pape's Diapetol and let you eat one 22-grain tablet and see it within five minutes there is left any trace of your former misery.

The correct name for your trouble is Food Fermentation—food souring; the Digestive Organs become weak, there is lack of gastric juice; your food is only half digested, and you become affected with loss of appetite, pressure and flatness after eating, vomiting, nausea, heartburn, griping in bowels, tenderness in the pit of stomach, bad taste in mouth, constipation, pain in limbs, sleeplessness, belching of gas, biliousness, sick headache, nervousness, dizziness or many other similar symptoms.

If your appetite is feeble and nothing tempts you, or you belch gas, or if you feel bloated after eating, or your food lies like a lump of lead on your stomach, you can make up your mind that at the bottom of all this there is but one cause—fermentation of undigested food.

Prove to yourself in five minutes that your stomach is as good as any; that there is nothing really wrong. Stop this fermentation and begin eating what you want without fear of discomfort or misery.

Almost instant relief is waiting for you. It is merely a matter of how soon you take a little Diapetol.

PERSONALS

Mr. H. J. Robertson, Jr., and family have moved into the bungalow at the Portsmouth Country Club.

Mr. Wilder Quint, editorial writer of the Boston Post, passed Sunday with his wife, who is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hutchins, on State street.

Mr. Fred L. Willis, General Secretary of the Worcester Y. M. C. A., passed Sunday here and that evening addressed a large gathering at the Methodist church. Mr. Willis on three different occasions addressed the Y. M. C. A. business men during the winter.

Captain C. C. Marsh, U. S. N., commanding the U. S. S. North Carolina, who has the Benedict house for the summer, received orders on Saturday detaching him from the command of the North Carolina and ordering him to the War College at Newport, R. I.

Mr. Edmund C. Tarbell, the artist, passed Saturday and Sunday at his home in New Castle. Mr. Tarbell's exhibit at Copley Hall closed on Sunday evening and all the critics are unanimous in their statement that it has been the greatest exhibition of one man's painting ever seen in New England, if not the country.

EVERITT "SIX-45"

IS MUCH PRAISED

Popularity of This Model Causes Increased Demand

The advent of the Everitt six cylinder in Portsmouth has created a sensation among the motorists—it is just one year in advance of the other standard cars.

One of the latest touring car creations shown in Portsmouth is the 6-48 Everitt. There is an appearance about it that would indicate power and speed. Owners of this model are loud in their praise of the easy riding qualities and simplicity in both construction and operation.

The Metzger Motor Car Co., makers of the Everitt, had intended to build only a few of this model. The popularity everywhere has made it necessary to increase the original number, and there is a question now in the minds of the Portsmouth agent whether or not he will be able to supply the demand, judging from the interest that is being shown by automobile buyers.

A. W. Horton says the extremely easy riding qualities are obtained by an even distribution of weight and the use of full elliptic coil springs on the rear. All of the springs are made of vandyum steel, with the leaves wide and thin.

The results were never more emphatic, politically speaking, in this country, than they are today.

ALGERNON IN DISTRESS

HAD HE GIVEN HIS OWN PILLS
TO HIS SICK SISTER?

Apparent Mixup in "Medsums" Alarmed Him Exceedingly, for It Might Have Killed Her, and "Life Is Very Scarce."

"Good ebenin', sah, good ebenin'," responded Algermon to Mr. Topfloor's greeting, but his voice sounded disgruntled and Mr. Topfloor glancing at his troubled countenance, inquired:

"What's the matter, Algermon? Elevator on the blink?"

"No, sah, dat ahn't it. It's mos' distress, an' I's mighty glad yo's come in, 'cos I wan' ast yo' advice 'bout a mos' serious mosh. I was to my doctah's dis afternoon to deport to him 'bout de condition ob my sister, an' 'wile I was dere, I tought I might's well git some medsum fo' mysef, too. So I ast him to gib me some pills, or a lotion or a tonic, or some'pln ob dat kin'. An' he say, 'Wot yo' wan' medsum fo', Algermon?' he say, an' I tol' him dat fo' de las' three days I ben trouble wif a sort o' dizziness in my feet dat was mos' noyin', 'specially w'en I runnin' de elevator. So he say he gib me some'pln fo' dat, an' den he han' me a box pills fo' my sister an' a box pills fo' mysef. He didn't put no name on de boxes, but de one dat was my box, it had de leasses I'll brack speck on de side, so of cos' I know which it was. I lef' de medsum at my sister's do' an' didn't take notice dat I lef' her de wrong box till after I ben heah 'bout a hour. It's f'id, Mistoh Topflo', dat my pills wouldn't be de kin' fo' her an' dat dey mebbe kill her ef she take 'nuff ob dem, an' I's jes' ben mos' crazy 'bout it! Wot does yo' tink, Mistah Topflo'—does yo' tink dat pills fo' dizziness in de feet would be baid fo' amonia ob de lungs?"

"I can't say, Algermon, but I think they might be," replied Mr. Topfloor; "you'd better go to your sister's house as quickly as you can and tell her not to take them."

"I cayn' leabe dis beah elevator at de presum' time, no how, dere's too much 'pendin' on me fo' dat. Yessah, I could ast de janitor to run it fo' me fo' a half hour or so. I novah t'ought o' dat. Yessah, I come tell yo' de 'sult ob de vestigation, des' soon as I know mysef, I ank yo' sah," concluded Algermon as the elevator passed down the shaft out of sight.

An hour later Algermon appeared at the Topfloors' door and announced beamingly: "It's all right, sah. De janitor be resented to run de elevator fo' me wile I went to 'vestigate 'bout de pills. It's a mighty queer ting, Mistoh Topflo'. My sister she hadn't took one ob dem pills ob mine. She say she has de queeres' 'follin' in de pam of her raight han' dat tol' her de pills wasn't hers, an' dey couldn't git her to swaller one, no how. But ef it had a-ben dem pow'ful pills ob mine, I reckon she be 'daid now an' I'd a-ben mighty sorry, 'cos life is v'y scarce, Mistoh Topflo'—very scarce."—New York Press.

A Greek Name.

Greek may have gone out of fashion, but Greeks have not. The being who used to live for us only in the pages of ancient history is now a familiar figure in every American city.

"Mention the name of some well known Greek," said the teacher of a juvenile class in history.

"George," spoke up a curly haired little boy.

"George who?"

"I don't know the rest of his name, ma'am. He comes round to our house every Thursday with bananas and oranges."

Such a Nice Time.

Dorothy was so homesick at her first party and cried so bitterly that the hostess's mother suggested that it would be better for her to go home.

Dorothy accepted the idea, but a few minutes later, upon answering a timid ring at the door, the hostess's mother found Dorothy bathed in tears.

"Well, Dorothy, I am glad to see you again. Did you decide to come back to us?"

"No'm'm, I forgot t-to say I had such a nice time!"—Browning's Magazine.

Heirlooms.

"And is this an heirloom, too?" asked the visitor, picking up a brick that lay on the center table.

"Yes," said the lady of the house. "That is the brick my mother threw at the prime minister."

"Ah, indeed, how very interesting," said the visitor. "And whose portrait is that on the wall?"

"That is my mother herself," said the lady.

"I see," said the visitor. "The power behind the throne, as it were."—Harper's Weekly.

Discovered.

"That man has an idea that he understands women. He's a widower, I believe."

"No't. If he's got any such idea as that he's a bachelor."

MERCY THAT STINGS

NIGHT COURT JUDGE METES OUT DISGUISED JUSTICE.

Fashionable Women Enjoy His Cruelly Impertinent Questioning of Forlorn Girl and Then Praise Him for His Kindness.

"She's been up here thirty times," said the court officer, with a backward jerk of his thumb.

She wasn't a bad looking girl at all. Not many months ago she had been a very good looking girl indeed. In spite of the bluish undertone and the drizzling rain that had been falling, she was not noticeably bedraggled when she came into the night court for women. One chiefly noticed that her eyes were dull and her bearing careless. She had become used to the routine of her life—and that routine included the court. Emotion had been burned out of her by the caustic of existence. A flare of drunken anger—a maudlin sob—were her limits of expression. She mounted the bridge drowsily, hopelessly. It was evident enough the girl didn't care.

"Ask her—"

A buzz of whispering filled the court room. One looked up to see a bevy of handsomely dressed women sitting by the side of the judge. They were evening gowns. Gems sparkled against the pallor of their breasts. Their fair shoulders were protected against the draughts of the filthy courtroom by costly furs. They rested white kid elbows upon the judge's desk and dropped their arrogant and complacent faces in slender hands and stared that dingy courtroom down. The judge had obviously been dining with them. His handsome face was flushed and he often laughed behind his hand with the prettiest of his callers. At their prompting he asked that poor, bedeviled, hopeless woman who stood before him questions that were still cruelly impertinent, though he was a judge and she a woman of the streets. The stilt clad women by his side tittered and exchanged mocking glances. The woman's voice grew hoarse and strained as she replied. She stared at the women of another world as those women of the poor streets in Paris may have stared at the women of the court some hundred odd years ago.

"You may go now," said the judge, silkily. The woman who sat by his side upon a bench that had been defiled, stretched out their pretty hands and patted him gently upon the arm.

"How good you are to these people," said one to him, addressing him by his first name.

The old court officer was leading the woman toward the door. A bright spot burned high upon her cheekbones. The flames of rage flared in her widely opened, staring eyes.

"G'wan now, kid," said the old court officer, patting her shoulder with awkward kindness. "Don't you care."

At the Bird Store Window.

The bird store window is an unfailing attraction to many people. Perhaps it attracts men more than women, but it is a magnet that draws all children.

Let small boys or girls discover a bird store and they halt and linger long, wondering over or admiring the strange or beautiful feathered creatures within, and children walking with their mother if they should spy this window are sure to tug her toward it to give them a chance to look in. The bird store window interests all children, as it appears to interest also many grown men who may be drawn to it by a natural fondness for birds and animals, or be attracted by the novel or striking character of the exhibit on view.

Here, for instance, in this window is a white peacock, a remarkable bird seen with its plumage in whatever form. As with characteristic deliberation it walks about with its long tail feathers folded and trailing people stop to look at it, and then let it raise and spread its great white fan and many more halt and gather in a crowd around the window.—New York Sun.

Hurt in the Sequel.

Graham Ferguson has just returned after an absence of six months on "the other side." Fergie did not spend all his time abroad at the home of his Ayrshire ancestors; he visited Switzerland and Italy and did not neglect Paris. It was in this famous city that he witnessed a famous sight.

"When I was in France," he told a newspaper friend Sunday, "I saw a duel."

"Oh! One of those French duels, eh? Nobody was hurt, I presume?"

"You are wrong there. One of the contestants was seriously injured."

"One of the contestants? Surely you mean, a bystander or a second or a surgeon?"

"No, sir; one of the duellists. He had a rib broken."

"You astound me! One of those toy rapiers could not smash a rib, surely?"

"Rapier, nothing! The brave man's rib was broken in the embrace with his opponent, after the duel was over."

WHY MAN EXCELS AT GOLF GOOD THINGS IN COMBINATION

Woman Lacks the Active Physical Training Which Her Brother Gets in Boyhood.

If you were asked why men play better golf than women you would probably be told: because men are stronger than women. And that would be the truth, but only part of it. Possibly the difference in the effectiveness of the woman's and the man's game can, as some people claim, be traced directly to the length of the shot, but the more one investigates the more he is led to qualify this conclusion. It becomes, on the whole, less reasonable to credit solely to muscular advantage the eight to nine strokes which, roughly, measure the handicap due from a man to a woman. In other words, if a man and a woman should happen to have an equal supply of strength and endurance, it seems that the man would turn out to be the better golfer. That is the question.

In the first place, men have far greater game experience. They begin to play bat and ball games at an earlier age and thereby develop more thoroughly the "feel" of clubs and the fine eye that is necessary for success in such games. There are all sorts of games that boys amuse themselves with from their earliest youth which give them eye. And when they take a golf club in their hands for the first time the essential act of concentrating their vision on the object to be struck is not a novelty. It is second nature.

With a girl it is different. She has not daily played games that developed her eye, such as marbles, "scrub," hockey, snowballing and target practice, games that are the constant avocations of boys who practice the profession of being boys. And yet one of the greatest of women golfers assures me that women have shown in tournaments more concentration of the eye than men and that only last fall this fact was proved. It appears that a computation was made both at the men's championship and the women's which proved that the women missed their drives less often than the men.—Charles Alden Seltzer in the Outing Magazine.

First Look to Talk.

In New street, Hoxham, England, says a writer in the May Strand, there is to be seen the very exceptional and interesting spectacle of a talking rook. The bird is the property of two school children, a little girl and boy, who caught it five years ago, when it was quite a baby, in a local rookery. It is of the gentler sex, and occupies a small pen in a tiny back garden. No attempt has ever been made to teach the rook to talk, and yet she has a vocabulary of close upon 100 simple words. She is often allowed out in the garden, for, although she can fly swiftly and strongly, she can be trusted not to make her escape. It is said that this is the first instance of a rook developing the power to talk.

MISTAKE, BUT WORKED WELL

Unintentionally Friendly Letter to Bullet-Proof Debtor Brought Quick Results From Him.

A lawyer who had drifted out of the regular line into a collection practice dictated so many dunning letters every day that he had his stenographer sign them and would himself read over the carbon copies the following day if he thought it necessary. He had another bad habit, which was that as it came to the close of a day and he had become weary of nagging people he would grow facetious and instead of dictating the names of the debtor properly would vary the monotony by saying "Dearest Skin" or "Darling Mr. Smith," knowing that his stenographer, having the correspondence before her, would fill in the proper name.

It chanced that she, like most good stenographers, decided to get married, and she brought her sister into the office to succeed her. The first full day of dictation that the attorney put in after the sister's advent chanced to be one of his humorous ones, and he started a letter to a bullet-proof debtor named Samuel Smith "Dear Sammy," and then proceeded to tell Sammy his opinion of him. The next morning, on looking over the carbon copies, he was horrified to find the new stenographer had typed that letter exactly as it was dictated and sent it out in the mail the night before.

All that day the attorney expected Mr. Samuel Smith to show up with fire in his eye and a pistol in his hand. He shivered when the office door opened and he left for home very early in the afternoon. The next morning, however, he received a letter from "Sammy," which started off "Dear Billy" (the lawyer's given name being William), and which went on to say, "If you had addressed me in such friendly style before you would have had the money sooner," and inclosed was "Sammy's" check for the whole account.

The new method had brought gratifying results, but the attorney did not dare to adopt it as a regular practice; on the contrary, his dictation since has been notable for its exactitude.

Nettles as Substitute for Cotton.

The search for a cotton substitute has been going on in Europe for a long time, and many experiments have been made with the common nettle, which has been a promising plant on account of the strength of its fiber and its ready growth wild under the most discouraging conditions, with a large yield per acre. The great difficulty has been in separating the fiber from the woody stem. In a method of treatment that has been worked out in the last two or three years, the dried nettle stems are boiled about half an hour in dilute soda lye, and the loosened fibers are then separated in a machine with revolving brushes. The material is then subjected to a number of alternate boilings in dilute lye and thorough washings, both under high pressure. The product is a mass of yellowish fibers, free from gum, that can be bleached, combed, and spun into lustrous white yarn. This is claimed to have the smoothness and softness of flax, with a strength even greater than that of hemp. The yarn has been made into brilliant damask, and can be used—alone or with other threads—for upholstery, ribbons, and a variety of fabrics.

Year's Sleep in Prison.

A remarkable case of lethargy is reported from one of the towns in South Russia. A certain Motessylanko was put on his trial in March of last year on the charge of having committed an armed robbery, but in the midst of the proceedings he dropped to the floor in what was supposed at the time to be a fainting fit, but which afterward proved a lethargic sleep.

In this condition the prisoner has lain till March 8 of the present year. He has evidently been all the time in complete possession of his wits, but was unable to move a limb, open his eyes or take food. When his eyelids were raised the pupils could be seen, and he was all the time fed by artificial means.

During his sleep he has lost some weight, but he has kept throughout the external appearance of a man in normal and healthy sleep.

Titanic as a Synonym for Large.

Marion made it a practice to use all the new words she heard of in sentences. The other night she was listening while her mother read of the disaster of the Titanic.

"Mother," she said, "what does Titanic mean?"

"Titanic," her mother replied, "means very large, or big."

Marion was thoughtful for a minute. Then turning to her mother she said:

"I can use it in a sentence."

"How?" asked her mother.

"The Titanic ship hit an iceberg Titanicer than itself," said Marion.

Justified.

Judge—What have you to say for yourself for beating this man in such a brutal manner?

Prisoner—Your honor, he asked me if my name was Ismay.

Judge—Discharged.

Her Tribute.

"I think I know my own failings," he said.

"If you do," his wife replied, "your knowledge takes a much wider range than I have ever given it credit for."

LOCAL DASHES

Many out of town automobilists visited this city on Sunday.

Today's weather is not very favorable to the opening of the games of the Sunset baseball league.

Many from this city, took advantage of the fine weather on Sunday to visit the neighboring beaches.

"How'll you swap" was for years a familiar query on New England highways, from barnyard fences and around the soapstone stove at the "Corner" store. It was the primitive method of seeking possession of a desired article. Except for the pleasure of "dickering" the results were usually unsatisfactory—to one party of the transaction at least. The modern way is to use the small advertisement of the Chronicle which is the exchange medium for Portsmouth and vicinity.

Apt Reply.

A laborer contracted with a farmer to work during the summer, but he tired of the job and walked off.

Later he returned and demanded the balance of his pay. The farmer had been unable to get another hand, all being engaged elsewhere, and he claimed his crop was injured from lack of attention more than the wages due amounted to, and he refused to pay him.

The laborer sued him, but lost the case. He was very angry, and openly said he would get even.

The farmer owned a bunch of fine cattle and was amazed and indignant one morning to find their tails had been cut off. He sued the laborer and brought witnesses who had heard him threaten revenge, but the evidence was circumstantial and the case was dismissed for want of proof. Later the farmer and a neighbor were looking at the cattle, and the farmer remarked he did not know what to do with them.

"Well," said the neighbor, "I think you better dispose of them by wholesale, for it is certain you can never retail them."—Norman E. Macle's National Monthly.
